HANKOW SEES A HOT FIGHT DRAWN BATTLE

Reinforced Imperial Army Attacks Rebels in Trenches.

LATTER ARE DRIVEN BACK

Gunboats in River Fire on City, but Are Forced to Seek Shelter Behind Foreign Warships When Fire From Revolutionary Batteries Becomes Too Warm—Two Boats Reported in Sinking Condition—Red Cross Nurses Have Hands Full.

London, Oct. 19.—London papers print a dispatch from Hankow which says that Admiral Sa Chen Ping headed 2,000 marines to reinforce General Chang Piao, who has only a thousand men, strongly entrenched, north of Hankow. The revolutionaries, who have been seriously menacing Chang Piao's troops, were immediately attacked with vigor, and at the same time the imperial gunboats in the river opened fire. Two of the imperial gunboats were badly damaged and it is reported that they are in a sinking condition. The gunboats made ineffectual reply to the firing from the shore, and as the rebel fire threatened to annihilate them, they executed a dangerous maneuver and took refuge behind the foreign flotilla.

In the meanwhile the land fighting was fierce, though not decisive. The revolutionaries made repeated attacks upon the trenches, but were repulsed each time with heavy loss. Scores of wounded were brought to Hankow and treated at the Red Cross hospital established in the foreign concessions. Hitherto the concessions have been in no danger, but as a precautionary measure landing parties have been sent ashore from foreign warships.

Rebels Take Nanking. San Francisco, Oct. 19.—Cablegrams received at Chinese headquarters in this city state that the revolutionaries, following a week's siege of the city of Nanking, took the first line of fortifications by assault and are now inside the walls of the city, fighting the imperial garrison in a house-to-house combat. They are aided by the Chinese inhabitants of the city who, following the entrance of the revolutionists, are aiding in attacking the imperial troops.

Suffragette To Address Cleveland Women

Mrs. Pankhurst Will Tell Ohio Club Women About Franchise. Cleveland, O., Oct. 19.—As a result of a partial canvass of the delegates to the convention of the Ohio State Federation of Women's Clubs, local and state leaders of the suffrage movement are convinced that the federation will endorse woman suffrage. The majority of delegates have already pronounced themselves either militantly or at least lukewarmly in favor of votes for women. It is expected that a vote will be forced on the issue this evening, following an address by Newton D. Baker on "The Importance of the Constitutional Convention to Women." Although the convention closes tomorrow noon, most of the delegates will remain over for the address in the evening by Mrs. Pankhurst, the noted English suffragette. The federation has 438 clubs and a total membership of 18,512.

Three of the heroes are from Ohio. They are: Edward T. Rasmussen, bronze medal and $2,000 for education. Saved man from drowning at Fairport Harbor, O., Aug. 6, 1909. Charles A. Cooper, division passenger agent, of Columbus, injured internally; M. J. Beebout, Louisville, O.; J. Bresant, Cincinnati, and Claude McCarty, Zanesville. The accident is supposed to have resulted from a broken rail.

Largest Cheese In the World Prepared For Mr. Taft's Knife

WISCONSIN ranks high as a dairy state, and it was with a view of emphasizing its importance that the dairymen of the state arranged to construct a cheese that would be bigger than any other cheese ever made. The proprietors of 1,200 dairies were interested in the plan. They milked 8,000 registered Holsteins at the same hour and then shipped the seventy-two tons of milk to thirty-two sanitary cheese factories, where 12,000 pounds of curd were extracted. This curd was then sent to Appleton, Wis., where Nicholas Simon, a noted cheese expert, and Dairy and Food Commissioners John D. Cannon of Wisconsin and A. W. Perkins of Minnesota superintended the construction of the gigantic cheese. The milk was cooled to the same temperature in the dairies, and the curd was treated by the same process in each of the cheese factories so it would be uniform. More than 300 pounds of salt were used in the curd, which made the total weight of the cheese something in excess of six tons. The cheese was sent to the national dairy show at Chicago to be on exhibition until President Taft's visit, Oct. 30, when he was to cut and sample the jumbo. The upper picture shows the vat in which the curd was mixed, while the lower picture shows workmen packing the curd into place and forming the cheese.

Russian Prince Assassinated While in Private Car.

Novo Tcherkask, Russia, Oct. 19.—Shot down by an assassin in a private car, Prince Troubetzkoy, husband of Amelle Rives, the American authoress, died within a few hours. His slayer is said to have been a student and a relative of the prince. He was traveling to this city, and the assassin fired several bullets into him.

Dynamite or Gas Theory Put Up to Judge Bordwell.

Los Angeles, Oct. 19.—Whether a fixed belief that the office of the Los Angeles Times was blown up by dynamite instead of by gas or other explosive is sufficient cause for dismissing veniremen from service in the McNamara trial must be decided by Judge Bordwell. Two veniremen have been challenged by the defense because they believe dynamite was used. These challenges were resisted by the prosecution and the court took the matter under advisement.

The fight was made on George W. McKee, a venireman who said he had a decided opinion that the building had been blown up by dynamite. Declaring that the defense would attempt to prove that a gas explosion wrecked the building, Attorney Darrow challenged. The district attorney maintained that if the gas theory was upheld the whole fabric of the case against the McNamaras would collapse, and that as the men are on trial, it must be admitted that the explosion was due to dynamite.

Epidemic Closes Schools.

Pindlay, O., Oct. 19.—More than half of the pupils of the Detweiler school in this city have been quarantined because of an epidemic of scarlet fever, and the schools have been closed. The orphan's home, where two cases are confined, is under quarantine.

Turks Reinforced.

Rome, Oct. 19.—The Turks behind Tripoli have been reinforced and have received fresh supplies of provisions from across the Tunisian frontier. Fighting is expected at Derna and Bengazi.

Fact That Threat to Murder Families of Those Responsible for Conviction on Wheat-Stealing Charge Is Partly Executed, Leads to Belief That Killing of Two Families at Colorado Springs and Monmouth, Ill., Was Prompted by Same Motive.

Ellsworth, Kan., Oct. 19.—It is the belief of officials who are searching for Charles Marzyek, an ex-convict, wanted in connection with the murder of the William Showman family here Sunday night, that Marzyek is also guilty of the brutal killing with an ax of the Wayne and Burnham families at Colorado Springs, Colo., and of the killing of three persons at Monmouth, Ill., recently. The heads of these 14 victims were all crushed with an ax. Mrs. Minnie Vopat, Marzyek's divorced wife, furnished the authorities with the clue that Marzyek had been in Colorado Springs about the time the crime was committed there.

President Adds Eighteen Days to Present Jaunt.

WILL TOUR SOUTHERN STATES

Change in Program Announced Suddenly and Hides Hustles to Complete Arrangements for Speaking Dates—Will Return to White House in Time to Prepare Message to Congress—Attendance at Dedication of Lincoln Farm Planned.

Ogden, Utah, Oct. 19.—President Taft, before he returns to Washington, will have made a new mileage record. To the 13,000 miles of the original schedule the president has added some eighteen days of travel. The addition to the itinerary includes a day in West Virginia, four days at Hot Springs, Va., for a rest, two or three days at his home in Cincinnati and a tour through Kentucky and Tennessee, with probably a stop in Virginia on the way to Washington. This will delay the president's return to Washington nearly three weeks, bringing him to the White House about Nov. 10, a little more than two weeks before the opening of the regular session of congress.

In that time he will have to prepare his usual message on departmental and other government affairs for congress, draw his plans for tariff revision on the report of the tariff board on schedule K, which is to be ready for congress upon its convening, and put his house in order generally for the arduous work of the coming session.

Why Trip Was Abandoned.

The tour of Kentucky and Tennessee was contemplated when the itinerary for the present trip was under consideration. The lateness of the adjournment of congress last summer, however, forced the president to shorten his trip; also he was advised

LAW REPEALED THROUGH ERROR

Woman Dragged From Berth

Woman Sues Pullman Company For Alleged Indignities.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 19.—Charging that she was routed out of the berth where she had gone to sleep and was compelled to march barefooted and clad only in a gossamer nightie into another sleeping car in the presence of many male passengers, who gazed at her, Mrs. Mary Barnhill, prominent in Atlanta society, filed suit against the Pullman company for $10,000 damages.

Mrs. Barnhill says she was routed out in dishabille and forced to run the gauntlet of peeping Toms because the conductor claimed the porter had put her in the wrong sleeping car. She alleges the conductor refused to give her time to dress. She claims that after the transfer to the other car she discovered that her various articles of artificial hair now so much worn by ladies, and known as "rat" switches and puffs, which she had removed upon retiring, had been left in the berth. She alleges the conductor brought her these articles and exhibited them to the male passengers, much to her mortification.

Lawyers Declare Legislature Error Not Serious.

Columbus, O., Oct. 19.—Many persons were thrown into a panic for a short time when the discovery was made that the last legislature had repealed section 6085 of the General Code of Ohio, relating to collection of the $1,000 tax on saloons. In several instances there was a rush to lawyers, and they restored quiet by holding that the repeal of the liquor tax section wouldn't stand because the legislature repealed it through error and not through intent.

House bill 163, known as the county officers' salary bill, started out to repeal a large number of sections of the General Code, among them section 6086, relating to the compensation of county auditors; and it did repeal the section, substituting for it a new section, known as 6086, but at the end of the bill provided that "said original section 6085 of the General Code be and is hereby repealed."

Lawyers who were consulted were able to point out numerous court decisions supporting their contention that the mistake made by the legislature would not repeal the liquor tax section. They were able to show that the context of bill 163 referred to the repeal of section 6086 and not to 6085.

The error, however, got past all the legislative clerks and Governor Harmon as well.

THE JANITOR RUNS AMUCK

SCHOOL FIGHT

GETS HIS DISCHARGE QUICK

The little village of Lees Creek just over the line in Clinton county, was treated to a genuine sensational occurrence a few days ago, and one which has been discussed throughout the neighborhood.

Just before noon of the day the excitement took place one of the teachers in the schools sent John Kirby Jr., a pupil, to the superintendent's room for some infraction of the rules and on finding the superintendent out of his office, the boy sat down to wait for him. The boy's grandfather, John Kirby sr., was janitor of the building, and passing the room and seeing the child said to him to come on and go to dinner. The boy started, but just then Superintendent Snyder appeared on the scene and taking in the situation told the boy to go back and sit down. With that, so the story came to us, the janitor struck the superintendent and made continued efforts to strike him again, the superintendent merely endeavoring to hold him and not attempting to strike back. One of the teachers seeing the affair called to the basement, where the children were eating their noon lunch, and some of the larger High school boys ran to separate the men. In the meantime Kirby had secured hold of a chair and swinging it as the boys approached struck Harley Adams, a pupil, across the side of his head, laying his cheek open with a cut three inches long, and then the fighting janitor was overpowered. The Board met in the afternoon and as a result of its investigation Kirby resigned and his resignation was accepted. That, it is thought, will be the end of the matter.

THE COUNTY'S BONDED DEBT

"NOT SUCH A MUCH"

EVEN INCLUDING CITY'S BIT

The total bonded indebtedness of Fayette county at present, including bonds for school purposes is $232,882.32, and of this amount $192,882.32 represents the bonded indebtedness of Washington. However, $24,082.32 must come back into the general fund from special assessments for street improvements.

It will be seen that Washington is in excellent condition financially when it is known that the city could be bonded for $280,000.00 or four per cent. of the entire taxable value of the city, which is approximately $7,000,000.00. The $100,000 school bond issue is what brings the indebtedness up to such a large amount as it now is.

In the city the amount levied on the general tax duplicate, as including the $10,000 school bond issue, is $168,800, while the amount of the special assessments is $24,082.32, all of which is payable within five years.

The $68,800 indebtedness above mentioned and which must be paid by levy on the general duplicate, is divided up as follows:

Paving streets which has run several years longer than it should have run, $32,000; fire apparatus, $1000; water and light, $2,100; city property, $5,000; sewer and street improvement, $500; fire department building, $5,000; street improvement, $2,000; equipping fire department, $1200.

It will be noticed that the above bond issues cover a period of a great many years. These bonds fall due between now and, in the instance of the $13,000 for sewer and street improvements, 1837. Many of the street improvement bond issues, or special assessments, have been made within the past two or three years. These are the ones which will, if properly collected, and there is every reason to think they will be, come back into the treasury of the city so that the city will be out very little.

Bloomington school district has $13,000 in bonds, bearing 4 1/2 per cent. interest. Jeffersonville has $2,000 in bonds for school purposes.

BLIND MAN LEADS ORCHESTRA

Prof. Amadon With Fingers Reads Music as Readily as Another Does With Eyes.

Holton, Kan.—A man who is totally blind is professor of voice and violin in Campbell college in this town. He is Prof. Charles H. Amadon. Besides himself there are, so far as he knows, only two blind men who are employed in teaching, other than in the institutions of learning for the blind alone.

Prof. Amadon leads the choir in a church here, and is the leader of the college band of 22 members, besides playing the cornet, in which he is proficient. In conducting the choir, he follows the score, in its point markings, with one hand and uses the baton with the other.

Prof. Amadon teaches Italian, German and French, as well as English, in his work. He devotes one day a week to tuning pianos, and goes out through the farming districts alone, finding his way with a cane.

While Prof. Amadon has all the standard music in the point system for the blind, he transposes for his own use new music as it is published, for this purpose he has a small machine like a typewriter, called a Braille machine, after the man who invented it. Amadon's wife dictates the music to him and he stamps it in a sheet of paper with the machine, which leaves dots in relief upon the sheet. Rubbing the points of his fingers over these dots, he can read the music as readily as a man who can see.

Prof. Amadon is 29 years old. He was born and educated in Boston. He came to Holton three years ago. The first year he was connected with the college work he conducted "Rose Maiden," a cantata. He transposed all the parts, solos and choruses, with the words. He and his wife, working together, finished the work in a week.

SAYS SHE SEEKS REAL MATE

Mrs. Upton Sinclair, Wife of "The Jungle" Author, Not Contesting Suit for Divorce.

New York.—According to Upton Sinclair, author of "The Jungle" and other books, Socialist and founder of Utopian colonies, his wife left him to go on the stage, being lured to the step by one Harry Kemp, an alleged poet, of Kansas. In consequence of which, Sinclair declared his intention of beginning suit for divorce. The couple were married in 1900. There have been rumors of disagreements between the pair for some time.

Mrs. Sinclair, is not contesting her husband's suit for divorce, but refuses to admit that she intends to wed Harry Kemp. Mrs. Sinclair says that, like every other woman, she hungers for her "real mate," and that when she finds him she will marry him. She does not know whether Kemp is her "real mate." Kemp, is said to have not worn a hat for twenty years, winter or summer.

Three Eggs in One. Lincoln, Neb.—A Plymouth Rock hen's egg, laid on the farm of J. A. Buehler, in Johnson county, has been found to contain another complete with shell and still a third egg in a skin exterior. The original egg was nine and a quarter inches in circumference and the inner egg was perfectly formed and larger than the ordinary specimen.

Carwofordville, Ind.—Caught beneath tons of gravel and clay that caved in upon them while they were playing in a small cave on the bank of Dry Branch at Milligan park, southeast of Crawfordsville, Cecil Bean, twelve, and Ray Stamps, eleven years old, were smothered to death.

Fall Fair Draws Big Crowd Opening Day Great Success

The Fall fair was auspiciously launched Thursday morning. As if trying to make up for the storm of Tuesday, the sun rose brightly and the perfect October day, with the attractions of the meet, were enough to bring out an immense crowd from all over the county.

The morning crowd was far larger than was expected, the Mule race proving the big drawing card that was expected.

For an hour people lined the side walks waiting for the mule parade, and shortly after nine o'clock the Washington band headed the parade down court street from the intersection of Columbus and Washington avenue.

The wild west riders who are giving their big show on the Fair grounds, followed the band, the cowboys and Indians in all their war paint and giving their yells as they passed down the street.

Uncle Sam's mule led the parade of 27 entries, mules of all colors and dispositions.

It was one of the funniest parades ever seen on the streets, each mule advertising the merchant or business man he represented in grotesque fashion. Some of the "get-ups" were great with the long ears flapping out of gray hats, immense bows of bright colors decorating tails and manes, and the "kickers" when they "stood for it" sporting trousers or other trappings.

Considering the nature of the animal, the mules covered themselves with glory and bore their gayly decked riders proudly to the Fair grounds.

After the parade there was a stream of autos and vehicles to the Fair grounds and by the time the race was called the grand stand was well filled.

There never has been a race started on the ground like the mule race this morning.

Twenty-seven mules balked, bucked, poked, but finally were clubbed in line, and gotted off down the track hurly burly.

Their antics in the half mile dash were followed with laughter from the spectators, and it was only eleven minutes from the start till the last mule, obstinate as he was, pulled under the wire.

The awards were made as follows: 1st under the wire $5.00, Dowler riding Geo. Haynes mule.

High prizes divided. H. Smith, ridden by Billy Paul, last under wire, got high money, $22.50; 2nd, Andrews; 3rd, Larimer's Laundry; 4th, George Cox and Son. Time 2:32.

Last mule came in under wire in 11 minutes. The first money would have been won by Sherman Dearth if he had not fallen within 30 feet of the wire.

Ed Leadbetter who also took a tumble would have been second.

The two accidents led to the calling of a physician and some excitement.

The mule race had been worked up by strenuous effort on the part of the entertaining committee. Mr. Charles Allen, chairman, and the committee was greatly pleased over its success as a fun producer.

The Fair grounds at the noon hour resembled the county fair, many taking their dinners and spending the entire day.

The afternoon's races are starting off well, with the track in fair condition.

DAN CUPID WAS ASSISTED

MARRIAGE IN STORE

BY MERCHANT LEO KATZ

A most unusual proceeding occurred on the third floor of the Leo Katz & Company store Thursday morning shortly before noon, when Doyle Locke, of Pike county, and Mattie Burgess, living a few miles west of this city, were united in marriage, Justice Craig performing the ceremony.

The pair appeared at the store and Mr. Locke approached Mr. Katz and asked him where he could find a minister or some one to marry him to the young lady with him. He was referred to Justice Craig, and told to proceed with his shopping until he (Mr. Katz) could bring Justice Craig forgetting, in his excitement, that he was hatless and coatless, Mr. Katz rushed out, sprang into his machine and hurried to Justice Craig's residence where he secured the justice and hurriedly returned, finding the pair on the third floor in the ladies' shoe parlor.

Business was suspended while the clerks and customers witnessed the marriage ceremony, congratulated the newly married pair, and watched the bridegroom pay the marriage fee and depart with his wife.

When interviewed by a Herald reporter Mr. Locke said that he was from Pike county, but liked Fayette so well that he and his wife would make their home in western Fayette for the present at least, where he is working upon a farm.

Ham Taylor Returns And Lands in Jail

For the second time in the past two months, Ham Taylor has shown his smiling countenance in this city in direct opposition to the terms suspending his sentence.

Ham returned Wednesday, coming direct from the workhouse where one part of his sentence had expired. Six weeks ago he was paroled, violated the terms of his parole, and was sent back to the works.

When he appeared last night, Officers Haggard placed him under arrest and locked him up. Just what will be done in his case has not been announced.

Taylor was fined $100 and costs and given six months in the works for bootlegging and the six months was suspended, pending the time he absented himself from the city. His return makes the six months effective, and he will probably go back to the works unless he departs from hence sine die.

One Rider of Mule Was Badly Injured In Race at Fall Fair

Sherman Dearth, rider of Wolford's mule in the parade, and who was changed to the Haynes Furniture company's mule just before the race, was seriously injured before the mule went under the wire.

Dearth had plied the bud with such telling effect that he had forged far ahead, but when about 40 feet from the wire the mule, which was young and full of life, suddenly came to an abrupt halt, throwing Dearth over its head.

The delighted yells of the large crowd changed to exclamations of horror as the mule plunged upon the prostrate man, stepping upon him repeatedly before it scrambled over his body. Ed Leadbetter, who was close behind him, took a tumble, but was not injured.

Dearth was hurriedly carried from the track and given attention. A blow on the head caused him to remain in a semi-conscious condition for several minutes. It is believed that he will be fully recovered within a day or two unless internal injuries develop.

IN SOCIAL CIRCLES

Weddings and their attendant festivities fill a large space in the calendar of social events this autumn.

Wednesday afternoon, Miss Jean Glascock entertained in honor of an October bride, Miss Helen Gest.

A dozen of the bride-elect's special friends responded to invitations for bridge at two o'clock, and, from four to six a hundred society matrons and girls were in attendance at an elaborate and extremely pretty tea.

Both affairs were more than ordinarily attractive with the rooms redolent with flowers, and an unusual number of smart autumn toilets in evidence.

Miss Gest, who is conceded to be one of the most beautiful society girls in many seasons, was wearing a handsome gown of mode broadcloth, with trimming of brown net and ball fringe, and brown velvet poke bonnet, trimmed in fur and rose buds.

Miss Glascock was charmingly vivacious in rose silk rajah, embroidered in pastel shades.

Mrs. Louise Stutson Potter won the favor in the bridge game, a picture, and presented it to the bride-elect.

In the reception room and parlor the decorations of white and pink were carried out in clusters of cosmos and asters.

The dining room was in yellow, with an exquisitely appointed tea table, having for its centerpiece marchal nel roses and yellow snapdragons in crystal bud vases, embedded in smilax. Candles and shades on the table and sideboard also carried out the note of yellow.

Miss Helen Glascock and Miss Levon Cockerill poured and served the ices and also assisting in the dining-room were Misses Margaret Fullerton, Myrtle McCoy and Elizabeth Lallard.

Also assisting in the afternoon's hospitalities were Mrs. Georgiana Glascock, Mrs. N. W. Chaney, Mrs. Albert Glascock, Mrs. Fuller Hess and Miss Dorothy Fullerton.

The Buck florists did the decorating.

The catering was in charge of Cateress Woodson.

Among the guests were Mrs. Willis Stutson, of Columbus, and Miss Wilkin, of Hillsboro.

Mrs. R. M. Hughey gave delightful entertainment Wednesday afternoon to the Euchre club, which is now resuming its sessions. An elaborate two-course luncheon followed the game.

Ex-Senator T. W. Marchant Issues Statement of Position

To the People of Fayette County:

At the November election one member to represent Fayette county will be chosen to the Constitutional convention. The General Assembly has provided by law that the names of candidates shall be printed on one separate and independent ballot. The selection of delegate having thus been removed from politics, voters will be free to vote for that candidate who most nearly represents their views. I therefore take this means of stating my position on the most important question that will come before the convention, namely, the liquor question.

Personally, I have always opposed the saloon, and have voted and used my influence against it on all occasions, and shall continue to do so whenever and wherever opportunity offers.

If I am selected to represent the people of this county in the constitutional convention, I shall oppose incorporating into the new constitution any amendment that will directly or indirectly permit the opening of saloons in any dry territory in the state, or in any territory that may hereafter be voted dry.

I am aware that the liquor interests are sending out literature to create sentiment in favor of license; but we should remember that since 1851 the constitution of our state has provided that "No license to traffic in intoxicating liquors shall hereafter be granted in this state." Under local option the traffic has been driven back until the liquor interests have become desperate. They know that if license is adopted in Ohio, saloons can be opened in all dry territory. Under license, saloons would be opened in Washington C. H. and elsewhere in the county, and the people will be powerless to object or prevent. There are many other equally strong and valid objections to the system of license.

However, if it becomes necessary to submit the question of license to the people of the state, I will agree to it, provided that at the same time the question of state wide prohibition is also submitted. Let the true sentiments of all the people be obtained in a fair manner, and let them abide by the vote so taken. But in my judgment the extension of the principle of local option, together with strict regulations of the traffic in wet territory, is a solution that will receive wide and strong support.

On the other questions that are being discussed, I believe in drawing the line between those that are fundamental and properly belong in a constitution, and those which should be left for future lawmakers. I stand for a constitution that will protect the inalienable rights of all the people, that will embody the square deal, and with special privileges to none. I believe I can vote intelligently on all these questions but shall be open to conviction and ready always to do what seems the right, if I am honored by being chosen to represent the people of Fayette county in this important convention.

T. W. MARCHANT.

TELEPHONES—HOME NO. 137, BELL, MAIN NO. 170.

THE TELEPHONES.

Of course the new utilities board of the State of Ohio has a vast amount of important business to transact, but in almost every section of the state the sentiment seems to be unanimous that the wretched telephone service now furnished, where competition exists, and that means every place with the possible exception of Cincinnati, is about the one best thing for the Utilities Board to get busy on, quick.

It is generally understood that the laws of Ohio now permit, whenever a proper showing is made, a consolidation of rival companies, on certain conditions. It is also understood generally that there no longer exists any reason for keeping secret a consolidation previously made and a maintaining of wretched conditions for the sole purpose of blinding the public to the actual facts.

The Utilities Board is a costly piece of machinery to the taxpayers of the state and the present telephone conditions are not only a menace to business but a constant and ever present annoyance.

Just why the adjustment of the telephone muddle along lines which will assure better service to the people of the state, should be longer delayed is a matter which the general run of people cannot understand.

If the Morgan interests already control both rival companies as rumor persists in asserting, then why not let those interests get busy in the open, and if those interests do not already own or control both companies, fix it so they can do so.

The people of the state have endured this evil for years and they are anxious for relief.

THE REPUBLIC.

Not by any means, the least of the wonderful achievements of the people of the earth, during the last fifty years, which history will record, is the progress made in self-government.

Less than half a century ago the Republican form of government was regarded as a doubtful experiment with United States standing alone as an example of what might be accomplished by the people along the lines of self-government.

During the last fifty years, however, one throne after another has tottered and fallen before the storm of an awakened and enlightened people, and the few still remaining have been compelled to surrender one after another of their ancient rights and prerogatives until now most monarchies are mere forms of government with no power in fact over the people.

Kings and emperors are now permitted by the people to hold their jobs and no longer rule over subjects by Divine right.

The most astounding advance or awakening of a tyrant-ridden people, however comes from the Orient, where China, long regarded as the most absolute of monarchies, has thrown off the yoke and proclaimed a republic.

The grand success of the American Republic experiment begun on July 4th, 1776, has been the beacon light to all the world and now in almost every corner of the earth a "government by the people for the people and of the people" is no longer regarded as an experiment of doubtful character, but as a demonstrated truth.

Politicians Should Be Made to Fear

Honest and Deep Thinking
Voters

By WILLIAM BARNES, Jr., Chairman of New York State Republican Committee

ONE of the GREATEST DIFFICULTIES a political manager encounters who desires for the GOOD of his STATE and COUNTRY that the cardinal principles of our form of government should be maintained inviolate is the INDIFFERENCE and INDOLENCE of the very citizens upon whom the BURDEN of the maintenance of this government REALLY rests. Their inattention, due in a great degree to what they believe is their feebleness politically, only serves to INCREASE this feebleness and makes men in public life and politicians fearful of the MOUTHINGS of the CHARLATAN, whereas they should be afraid of the DEEP, CALM and SOBER THOUGHT of the INDUSTRIOUS and EARNEST MEN of the country.

A POLITICIAN IS PROVERBIALY A COWARD, AND THE ONLY WAY IN WHICH THIS NATION CAN BE RELIEVED FROM THE DANGERS WHICH CONFRONT IT IS TO MAKE THE POLITICIAN AFRAID OF INTELLIGENCE AND NOT AFRAID OF IGNORANCE. THE POLITICIAN WILL ALWAYS BE WITH US; HE CANNOT BE ELIMINATED, THEREFORE HE SHOULD BE MADE FEARFUL IN THE RIGHT WAY.

Poetry—Today

THE CRY OF THE WEARY.

I say it, I'm tired and weary,
And I'm worn and I'm tossed about
And I want to go dream things over,
And I want to go think things out.
I have borne all a brave man can bear,
And done all a brave man could;
And I'm tired, and I'm sad and lonely
And a little rest is so good!

I say it, I'm tired and weary,
And my heart aches, and I weep
For the calm of a twilight country
And the boom of a long, long sleep.
I have seen and have heard and am
sated;
I have toiled and been true, and I care
For nothing so much as the music
Of rest and a sleep somewhere!

I say it, I'm tired and weary,
And it seems as I say it, dear,
That the great world echoes and echoes
The cry of my heart so clear,
Can it be that it's tired and lonely,
And that all men are so, too,
Nor the beautiful crowns worth winning,
Nor the beautiful skies so blue?

I say it, I'm tired and weary,
And I long, oh, I long so much
To be off somewhere in the silence.
With the velvet mornings to touch
My brow with the dew and incense,
And the birds and the blooms
about,
While I gather myself together
And I try to think things out!

family, has started at the head of a posse to search the country here. Marzyek is believed to be hidden in the neighborhood. If he is found a battle is expected.

Marzyek not long ago served a term for stealing grain from James Vopla. Vopla, who is the husband of Marzyek's former wife, saw the ex-convict in a field near his house. Vopla and his family, terror-stricken, locked their house and fled to the home of a Slav fellow countryman, five miles distant.

Community In Arms.

All the members of the Slav community who had any connection with the conviction of Marzyek are going armed, for he is reported to have sworn vengeance on those responsible for his imprisonment.

Ira Lloyd, the attorney who defended Marzyek in the wheat stealing case, said: "I believe Marzyek will remain in the neighborhood until he completes his vengeance. After his sentence, he told me that when he was released he would come back and kill the people who were responsible for his conviction and also their children. 'I will put them all in hell,' he said."

Evidence furnished by Mr. and Mrs. William Showman is said to have been largely responsible for Marzyek's conviction.

As to a possible connection between the Ellsworth and other tragedies, Mrs. Vopla said her former husband was convicted of forgery in Colorado Springs a few months ago. She said it was not improbable that he had been in Monmouth lately. The same insane cruelty on the part of the slayer is evident in the Burnham and Wayne tragedies at Colorado Springs, in the murders of William E. Dawson, his wife and daughter, in Monmouth, and in the killing of the Showmans.

DOINGS IN OHIO

End Lives Under Trains.

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 19.—Three persons were killed by railroads entering Cincinnati in the last 24 hours. In two cases the coroner was informed the unfortunates threw themselves under the wheels of the train. The first was that of Edward West, who was killed by a Big Four train. He is said to have told relatives he intended to take his life. The second was James Bentley, 45. He threw himself in front of a C. & H. D. passenger train. The third is thought to be George McCool of Lawrenceburg, Ind. While riding a freight train he fell off.

Suspect Under Arrest.

Steubenville, O., Oct. 19.—The police officials here arrested an Italian who is suspected of having been one of three who stabbed Father Sovilla of Columbus. He gave his name as Malloio Strach, 24, and when taken into custody had in his possession a loaded revolver, a razor, some money and three knives. He is being held for Columbus authorities.

Feed Booze to Fish.

Zanesville, O., Oct. 19.—In the case of E. O. Donnelly, convicted of violating the Rose law, Prosecutor Ribble stated that railroad engineers had refused to take out their trains for fear of running over drunks who were sprawled about the yards. Donnelly sold beer from a boxcar. Five hundred gallons of liquor were poured into the Muskingum river.

Burns to Death In Hut.

Sidney, O., Oct. 19.—David Sheely, an aged man, who has been living the life of a recluse in an old hut on the river bank near here, was fatally burned when he attempted to build a fire with coal oil. All his clothes were burned from his body and the flesh cooked.

Zanesville Merchant Dies.

Zanesville, O., Oct. 19.—Alfred H. Aler of this city, vice president of the C. C. Aler Wallpaper company of Columbus, is dead. He was manager of the local branch of the C. C. Aler company. He is survived by a wife, one son and his brother, C. C. Aler of Columbus.

Scott In Good Spirits.

Columbus, O., Oct. 19.—With only a few hours to live unless the governor grants another reprieve, Steve Scott, colored, sentenced to die in the electric chair just after midnight tonight, is in good health and spirits and has suffered no loss of appetite.

Heavy Loss by Fire.

Zanesville Schools Closed.

Zanesville, O., Oct. 19.—The schools were closed on account of an epidemic of diphtheria. Nellie Sweet, 5, died with malignant diphtheria. Four other members of the family are near death.

Begin Taking Testimony.

Taft Seeking a New Record in Long Tour

by Henry Watterson of Kentucky to postpone his visit to Kentucky until after the elections had been held there, lest his visit might be considered by the Democrats to mean an interference in state politics. Consequently the visits to those states were abandoned and the present trip was arranged to end on Nov. 1 in order to allow Mr. Taft time for a short rest and for the preparation of his message and other work before the opening of congress.

The change in the plans was announced suddenly. Details for the trip through Kentucky and Tennessee have not yet been arranged, but Secretary Hilles is in touch with the persons in charge of the president's visit to the various towns. The day in West Virginia will be spent in Morgantown to attend some college function. In Cincinnati the president will vote on Nov. 7 and will make one or two addresses to organizations in his home city. No arrangements have been announced for the rest of the trip beyond a visit to Hodgenville for the dedication of the Lincoln memorial farm.

EVERYBODY'S BIBLE QUESTION BOX
YOUR BIBLE QUESTIONS WILL BE ANSWERED IN THESE COLUMNS, OR BY MAIL IF SENT TO THE EDITOR OF THIS JOURNAL.

Q.—Most church denominations throughout the world have adopted the Apostles' Creed. Why is it called the "Apostles' Creed"? Was it written by the Apostles, and where do we find it in the Bible?

Answer.—What is known among Christians as the "Apostles' Creed" was not written by the Apostles of our Lord, hence it is nowhere found in the Bible. As to its origin we quote from Mosheim's Ecclesiastical History, a recognized authority by scholars, as follows: "There is indeed extant, a brief summary of Christian doctrines, which is called the Apostles' Creed; and which, from the fourth century onward was attributed to Christ's ambassadors themselves. But at this day, all who have any knowledge of antiquity, confess unanimously that this opinion is a mistake, and has no foundation. Those judge far more wisely and rationally who think that this creed arose from small beginnings, and was gradually enlarged as occasions required in order to exclude new errors from the church." It was probably given its name by those who prepared it, as signifying that in their judgment, it contained only truths taught by the Apostles. It contains many truths, but it is not wholly Scriptural. For instance: "I believe in the resurrection of the body," whereas nothing in the Bible teaches that our bodies are two bodies, which is absurd. Further he states, "It (the to be resurrected). The Bible teaches that the soul will be resurrected. Of the resurrection the Apostle says, 'Thou sowest not that body that shall be. * * * But God giveth it (the soul-being) a body as it hath pleased Him and to each seed its own body.' Surely the Apostle was not speaking of the body when he uses the word 'it,' otherwise the body would have a body, therefore soul-being is sown a natural body; it (the soul or being) is raised a spiritual body. There is a natural body and there is a spiritual body." (I Corinthians xv, 35, 37, 44.)

Once started, it was a quiet game, with little or no conversation, though all about the players the place was a roar. Elam Harnish had ignited the spark. More and more miners dropped in to the Tivoli and remained. When Burning Daylight went on the tear, no man cared to miss it. The dancing floor was full. The luck at the table varied monotonously, no big hands being out. As a result, high play went on with small hands, though no play lasted long. But at three in the morning the big combination of hands arrived. It was the moment of moments that men wait weeks for in a poker game. The news of it tingled over the Tivoli. The onlookers became quiet. The men farther away ceased talking and moved over to the table. The players deserted the other games, and the dancing floor was forsaken, so that all stood at last, fivecore and more in a compact and silent group, around the poker table. The high betting went on, with the draw not in sight. Kearns had dealt, and French Louis had opened the pot with one marker—in his case one hundred dollars. Campbell had merely "seen" it, but Elam Harnish, coming next, had tossed in five hundred dollars, with the remark to MacDonald that he was letting him in easy. MacDonald glanced again at his hand, put in a thousand in markers. Kearns, debating a long time over his hand, finally "saw." It then cost French Louis nine hundred to remain in the game, which he contributed after a similar debate. It cost Campbell likewise nine hundred to remain in draw cards, but to the surprise of all he saw the nine hundred and raised another thousand.

"You-all are on the grade at last," Harnish remarked, as he saw the fifteen hundred and raised a thousand in turn. "Helen Breakfast's sure on top this divide, and you-all had best look out for bustin' harness."

"Me for that same lady," accompanied MacDonald's markers for two thousand and for an additional thousand-dollar raise.

"I ain't got no more markers," Kearns remarked plaintively. "We'd best begin I. O. U.'s."

"Glad you're going to stay," was MacDonald's cordial response.

"Ain't stayed yet. I've got a thousand in already. How's it stand now?"

"It'll cost you three thousand for a look in, but nobody will stop you from raising."

"Raise—h—l. You must think I got a pat like yourself," Kearns looked at his hand. "But I'll tell you what I'll do, Mac. I've got a hunch, and I'll just see that three thousand."

He wrote the sum on a slip of paper, signed his name, and consigned it to the center of the table.

French Louis became the focus of all eyes. He fingered his cards nervously for a pace. Then, with a "By Gar! Ah got not one leetle beet hunch," he regretfully tossed his hand into the discards.

The next moment the hundred and odd pairs of eyes shifted to Campbell.

"I won't hump you, Jack," he said, contenting himself with calling the requisite two thousand.

The eyes shifted to Harnish, who scribbled on a piece of paper and shoved it forward.

"I'll just let you-all know this ain't no Sunday school society of philanthropy," he said. "I see you, Jack, and I raise you a thousand. Here's where you-all get action on your pat, Mac."

"Action's what I fatten on, and I lift another thousand," was MacDonald's rejoinder. "Still got that hunch, Jack?"

"I still got that hunch," Kearns fingered his cards a long time, "and I'll play it, but you've got to know how I stand. There's my steamer, the Bella—worth twenty thousand if she's worth an ounce. There's Sixty-Mile with five thousand in stock on the shelves. And you know I got a sawmill coming in. It's at Linderman now, and the scow is building. Am I good?"

"Dig in; you're sure good," was Daylight's answer. "And while we're about it, I may mention casual that I got twenty thousand in Mac's safe, there, and there's twenty thousand more in the ground on Moosehide. You know the ground, Campbell. Is that all in the dirt?"

"There sure is, Daylight."

"How much does it cost now?" Kearns asked.

"Two thousand to see."

"Well sure hump you if you-all come in," Daylight warned him.

"It's an almighty good hunch," Kearns said, adding his slip to the growing heap. "I can feel her crawling up and down my back."

"I ain't got a hunch, but I got a tolerable good hand," Campbell announced, as he slid in his slip; "but it's not a raising hand."

"We'll Dance Some More By and By. The Night's Young Yet."

"Mine is," Daylight paused and wrote. "I see that thousand and raise her the same old thousand."

The Virgin, standing behind him, then did what a man's best friend was not privileged to do. Reaching over Daylight's shoulder, she picked up his hand and read it, at the same time shielding the faces of the cards close to his chest. What she saw were three queens and a pair of eights, but nobody guessed what she saw. Every player's eyes were on her face as she scanned the cards, but no sign did she give. She laid the hand face down again on the table and slowly the lingering eyes withdrew from her, having learned nothing.

MacDonald smiled benevolently. "I see you, Daylight, and I hump this time for two thousand. How's that hunch, Jack?"

"Still a-crawling, Mac. You got me now, but that hunch is a rip-snorter persuadin' sort of a critter, and it's my plain duty to ride it. I call for three thousand. And I got another hunch; Daylight's going to call, too."

"He sure is," Daylight agreed, after Campbell had thrown up his hand. "He knows when he's up against it, and he plays accordin'. I see that two thousand, and then I'll see the draw."

In a dead silence, save for the low voices of the three players, the draw was made. Thirty-four thousand dollars were already in the pot, and the play possibly not half over. To the Virgin's amazement, Daylight held up his three queens, discarding his eights and calling for two cards. And this time not even she dared look at what he had drawn. She knew her limit of control. Nor did he look. The two new cards lay face down on the table where they had been dealt to him.

"Got enough," was the reply. "You can draw if you want to, you know," Kearns warned him.

"Nope; this'll do me."

Kearns himself drew two cards, but did not look at them. Still Harnish let his cards lie.

"I never bet in the teeth of a pat hand," he said slowly, looking at the saloon keeper. "You-all start her rolling, Mac."

MacDonald counted his cards carefully, to make doubly sure it was not a foul hand, wrote a sum on a paper slip, and slid it into the pot, with the simple utterance:

"Five thousand."

Kearns, with every eye upon him, looked at his two-card draw, counted the other three to dispel any doubt of holding more than five cards, and wrote on a betting slip.

"I see you, Mac," he said, "and I raise her a little thousand just so as to keep Daylight out."

The concentrated gaze shifted to Daylight. He likewise examined his draw and counted his five cards.

"I see that six thousand, and I raise her five thousand . . . just to try and keep you out, Jack."

"And I raise you five thousand just to lend a hand at keeping Jack out," MacDonald said in turn.

His voice was slightly husky and strained, and a nervous twitch in the corner of his mouth followed speech.

Kearns was pale, and those who looked on noted that his hand trembled as he wrote his slip. But his voice was unchanged.

"I lift her along for five thousand," he said.

Daylight was now in the center. The kerosene lamps above flung high lights from the rash of sweat on his forehead. The bronze of his cheeks was darkened by the accession of blood. His black eyes glittered and his nostrils were distended and eager. They were large nostrils, tokening his descent from savage ancestors who had survived by virtue of deep lungs and generous air-passages. Yet, unlike MacDonald, his voice was firm and customary, and, unlike Kearns his hand did not tremble when he wrote.

"I call, for ten thousand," he said. "Not that I'm afraid of you-all, Mac. It's that hunch of Jack's."

"I hump his hunch for five thousand just the same," said MacDonald. "I had the best hand before the draw, and I still guess I got it."

"Mebbe this is a case where a hunch after the draw is better'n the hunch before," Kearns remarked; wherefore duty says, 'Lift her, Jack, lift her,' and so I lift her another five thousand."

Daylight leaned back in his chair and gazed up at the kerosene lamps while he computed aloud:

"I was in nine thousand before the draw, and I saw and raised eleven thousand—that makes thirty. I'm only good for ten more." He leaned forward and looked at Kearns. "So I call er five thousand."

"You can raise if you want," Kearns answered. "Your dogs are good for five thousand in this game."

"Nary dawg. You-all can win my dust and dirt, but nary one of my dawgs. I just call."

The saloon keeper finally spoke: "If anybody else wins, they'll have to take a mortgage on the Tivoli."

The two other players nodded.

"So I call, too."

MacDonald added his slip for five thousand. Not one of them claimed the pot, and not one of them called the size of his hand. Simultaneously and in silence they faced their cards on the table, while a general tiptoeing and craning of necks took place among the onlookers. Daylight showed four queens and an ace; MacDonald four jacks and an ace, and Kearns four kings and a trey. Kearns reached forward with an encircling movement of his arm and drew the pot in to him, his arm shaking as he did so. Daylight picked the ace from his hand and tossed it over alongside MacDonald's ace, saying:

"That's what cheered me along, Mac. I knowed it was only kings that could beat me, and he had them."

"What did you-all have?" he asked, all interest, turning to Campbell.

"Straight flush of four, open at both ends—a good drawing hand."

"You bet! You could a' made a straight, a straight flush or a flush out of it."

"That's what I thought," Campbell said, sadly. "It cost me six thousand before I quit."

"I wisht you-all'd drawn," Daylight laughed. "Then I wouldn't a' caught that fourth queen. Now I've got to take Billy Rawlins' mail contract and mush for Dyea. What's the size of the killing, Jack?"

Kearns attempted to count the pot, but was too excited. Daylight drew it across to him, with firm fingers separating and stacking the markers and I. O. U.'s and with clear brain adding the sum.

"One hundred and twenty-seven thousand," he announced. "You-all can sell out now, Jack, and head for home."

The winner smiled and nodded, but seemed incapable of speech.

"Name your snake-juice, you-all—the winner pays!" Daylight called out loudly to all about him, at the same time rising from his chair and catching the Virgin by the arm. "Come on for a reel, you-all dancers. The night's young yet, and it's Helen Breakfast and the mail contract for me in the morning. Here, you-all Rawlins, you—I hereby do take over that same contract, and I start for salt water at nine a. m.—savvee? Come on, you-all! Where's that fiddler?"

OSLER RIGHT; YOUTH SUCCEEDS AGE

Gray Hair is First Sign of Age, Harmless Remedy Restores to Natural Color.

Osler isn't the only man who turns down old age. In the business world the "young man" is always the one who picks the plums. It is an age of "new thought," "new talent," etc. and the old man is passed by in the race.

One of the first signs of coming age is the appearance of gray hairs. When you see them, act promptly. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy will correct this sign, which so often deceives people into thinking that age is really upon them. It is a well-known fact that Sage and Sulphur will darken the hair. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur combines these old-time remedies with other agents, which remove dandruff and promote the growth of the hair.

The manufacturers of this remedy authorize the druggists to sell it under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

Don't look old before your time. Get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur today, and see what an improvement it will make in the appearance of your hair. This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

Smells Like Good Coffee! Tastes Like Good Coffee! But Has Not One of the Bad Effects of Coffee

Here at last is the drink for everybody who likes the taste of good coffee. It is especially for those who know that coffee hurts them.

This perfect coffee substitute is called Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH. Remember the name—Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH. There's nothing else on the market like it.

Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH is not a tasteless cereal drink—not a vile-tasting decoction. It is a real drink, with all the tempting fragrance—all the satisfying flavor—of the finest coffee.

And not a headache—not a pang—not a moment's regret in it. No matter how sensitive your stomach, Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH is good for you. Drink all you want of Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH. It won't hurt you. It will help you.

Fitch's Grains of Health

The Coffee Substitute With the Coffee Taste

It took fourteen years to perfect Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH—the first real coffee substitute. Brilliant chemists joined their labors with coffee experts from the great plantations—men who have had a lifetime of experience with coffee—who know coffee from the seed to the cup.

They had a big idea. It was not to find something to take the place of coffee—but how to treat coffee so that the harm would be left out and the matchless taste and flavor kept in.

A Fascinating Story of Science and Perseverance

Everybody knows that the principle in coffee which causes all the harm is Caffeine. It is caffeine that affects the heart. Enough caffeine can be taken to arrest the heart.

How to neutralize or take out the caffeine without destroying the coffee taste was the task of these chemists and coffee experts.

They succeeded! They did more! They added natural health-building elements that correct ills of the digestive system and tone up the entire system. The perfected result is Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH.

It is a very simple combination. Test it as you will, you won't find one thing detrimental to health.

Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH has a special high-grade blend of coffee in it—but so combined with herbs, roots and vegetables that the caffeine is counteracted.

Even children can drink all they want of it without the least bad effect.

Note the Good Effects of Fitch's Grains of Health

The herbs, roots and vegetables in Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH give it a positive remedial effect.

We have multitudes of testimonials—some from distinguished physicians—to show that Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH speedily alleviates Indigestion, Heartburn, Sour Stomach, Biliousness, Sick Headache, Constipation, etc.

One of the ill effects of coffee drinking is constipation.

The herbs, roots and vegetables in Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH make a gentle laxative, which in the hot drink gives the most beneficial effect.

Nothing can sour in the stomach or intestines when they are daily cleansed by Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH.

Drink all of Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH you want. The more the better.

You can sleep like a baby on Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH. It is actually a remedy for insomnia—a blessing you will never be without, once you buy it.

Read What Delighted Users Say

Here are extracts from three of the hundreds of letters written about Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH. You can have the names on request. We offer $1,000 to anyone who can prove that any testimonial we print is not genuine.

From a Business Man—"I have used Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH and find it far superior to any coffee we ever used. It is all you claim—a coffee that everybody can drink and feel better after drinking it."

From a Doctor—"Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH has all the good drinking qualities of coffee and does not have harmful effects. It is good for the sick or the well. And as it has the coffee taste and flavor, anyone can enjoy it whether they need a health drink or not."

From a Woman—"I had suffered with severe headaches and sleepless nights. My grocer told me to quit coffee and try Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH. I bought a package. I drank it three times a day. My headaches and nervousness have left me and I enjoy a good night's rest. I will not be without Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH."

Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH is sold by all leading grocers. The price is 30 cents the pound. It is ground, ready for use. It is just as easy to prepare as coffee. But only half as much of Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH is required as coffee—a teaspoonful to a cup. Therefore, it really costs only half as much as good coffee.

If your grocer cannot supply you, write us, mentioning his name, and we will send you a generous sample package of Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH (enough to serve a large family at breakfast) and a booklet telling you all about Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH. Enclose 6 cents in stamps for postage.

AN APPEAL

To Our Citizens to Attend the Fall Fair Tomorrow

Program of Real Sport is Promised and Nobody Should Miss It

Editor Herald.

The success of the fall fair being held at the fair grounds today and tomorrow should be desired by all our citizens and they should back up that desire by attending the fair tomorrow. There will be automobile and specially racing in the forenoon and trotting and pacing races in the afternoon.

Many people are attending from other cities and towns and it is the duty of our own citizens to attend in force tomorrow, the last day.

Remember that this money realized from this fair will go to the new Odd Fellows' building on the corner of Fayette and Market streets, which is one of the attractive ornaments of the business section of our city. The Odd Fellows have shown a very commendable public spirit in erecting such an imposing structure in our city, and business men and citizens generally should show their appreciation by hearty support of the fall fair. Shut up the house and take your children and see that your friends and neighbors do likewise.

By the Thousands Blackbirds Gather

Great flocks of blackbirds have been visiting Fayette county the past two or three weeks, and some of these flocks contain tens of thousands of the birds which are now on their way to the sunny southland for the winter, stopping on their way to feed upon the insects, small seeds, and to devour the farmers' wheat if it is left upon top of the ground where it is easily picked up.

The whirr of the myriad of wings when the birds are flying sounds like a distant storm. They find a roosting place for the night in orchards and forest trees, but awaken early and make the neighborhood ring with their incessant chatter from dawn until after dark.

These large flocks of blackbirds visit Fayette nearly every fall, but they are rarely ever so numerous as the present year.

Buying goods is an art in itself, and often is done too hurriedly, without considering the life of the article and the benefits to be derived from its use. For instance, an article costing $100—which will do ordinary service for 5 years—costs $20.00 per year, another costing $90.00 does service for 3 years or $30.00 per year. The former saves $10.00 per year on an investment of $20.00 or a saving of 50 per cent. of the investment. Thus one man will get rich by making careful investments, while others will wonder how he did it. Therefore you should buy where everything is sold under absolute guarantee. And that is the way goods are sold at The Dice-Mark Hdw. Co., and the Harness and Buggy sale at the reduced price with the regular guarantee is still going on.

Falls From Tree Breaks His Arm

Another mishap was added to the large number which have taken place this fall while the citizens of Fayette are gathering their large apple crop, when Howard Wilson, living 7 miles north of Bloomingburg in the Range neighborhood, fell from a tree and broke his arm at the elbow.

Dr. Meade, of Sedalia, was called and dressed the wound. This is one of a half score of accidents of a more or less serious nature which resulted from falling from apple trees while engaged in picking apples.

Charles M. Stimson's Donation

TO THE Y. M. C. A.

Rounds Out the Complete Plan

Six Thousand Dollars Are Given For

A TRADE SCHOOL FOR BOYS

Former Fellow Townsman's Action Cause of Rejoicing.

With great public interest and rejoicing it is becoming generally known that Mr. Charles M. Stimson, of Los Angeles, Cal., our former townsman, has, by his liberality made possible the completion of a Y. M. C. A. plant that will have no equal in a town of this size throughout the country.

In the erection of the Y. M. C. A. building funds were lacking for carrying out the original plans as they were designed, for a complete Y. M. C. A. plant. The Board of Trustees began the building of the present structure urgently hoping that there would be some speedy means by which the building could be finished, as it was originally intended to cover the entire ground adjoining what is known as the Sharp building on Main street.

Of this there seemed to be but little present hope until Mr. Stimson arrived to visit his home town and relatives this week.

Although for long years one of the foremost business men of Los Angeles, Cal., where he has made his home since the early eighties, Mr. Stimson was so closely identified with Washington's early business development and prosperity in the establishment of Stimson Bros. Wholesale Grocery, of this city, and in various other activities for our town's welfare, that he has always seemed "one of us" and has always retained a warm interest in friends here.

All his life Mr. Stimson has been a liberal donor to worthy causes and out of his large means has helped most generously churches, Y. M. C. A. organizations and deserving philanthropies.

Coming here from a visit at his boyhood's home in Gray, Me., he acquainted himself with Y. M. C. A. conditions in Washington and signified his willingness to donate the $6000 necessary for the building, to complete the plans.

The board held a conference with Mr. Stimson with the eminently satisfactory results that an agreement was drawn up between him and the Young Men's Christian Association of Washington C. H.

By this agreement Mr. Stimson agrees to pay $6000 provided that

1st. Said building shall contain a trade school for boys.

2nd. Said building shall contain dormitory rooms for boys.

3rd. The remainder of said building shall be devoted to such purposes as seem to best care for said trade school, dormitories and association building.

4th. Said association may use the income from said building to pay insurance, taxes, assessments, operating expenses and repairs of said building.

5th. All of the net revenue of said trade school building shall be held by said Young Men's Christian Association in a separate fund and shall be used by said association to educate, provide homes for, and otherwise take care of needy boys in said trade school building and association building.

6th. Financial assistance given to needy boys shall be given in a proper and confidential way and all such boys shall pay for such assistance the regular prices therefor in note of hand, payable whenever the maker thereof is financially able to pay said note. The proceeds of said notes when paid shall be placed in the fund mentioned in provision No. 5 above.

7th. Said trade school building shall be known as "The Charles M. Stimson Industrial School for Young Men."

8th. The plans and specifications for said school building shall be approved by said Young Men's Christian Association and by Charles M. Stimson or by their heirs, successors, assigns or agents.

To the Board of Trustees who have devoted so largely of their time and ability to the erection of the Y. M. C. A. building and to the large number of our citizens who have promoted this movement by all means within their power, the generous gift of Mr. Stimson is a matter of great satisfaction.

It means that Washington C. H. will have a perfect Y. M. C. A., absolutely complete in its building association, and its trade school, with the Sharp building as a revenue producer. It will be one of the best in the land and cover the entire half square on Main street.

There is wide-spread appreciation of Mr. Stimson's interest in our town and this great work and the trade school building, one of the vital features of the association, to be known as "The Charles M. Stimson Industrial School for Young Men." will be a permanent monument to the warm-hearted donor.

Mr. Stimson also made a donation to the Y. M. C. A. at the time of its campaign.

Hand Caught In Folder

Mr. Earl McCoy was quite painfully injured on Wednesday evening about 4:30 o'clock.

While feeding newspapers into the folding machine at The Herald office, he reached out with his left hand to remove a small piece of paper which had become fastened under the cogs. He was not quite quick enough in withdrawing his hand and the rapidly revolving rollers came down with great force, catching the index finger of his hand.

The hand was drawn into the folder and the index finger badly mashed. The bones were broken and crushed. Dr. L. L. Brock dressed the finger and hopes to be able to save it.

Mr. McCoy, immediately after he succeeded in extricating his hand rushed out for assistance. He displayed great presence of mind in instantly reaching with his right arm under the left arm which was held in the folder and throwing off the drive belt.

Several workmen were in the office at the time but none could reach the cut-off lever in time to prevent the hand and arm of Mr. McCoy from being drawn further in the folder and into the rapidly revolving knives and tapes, where much more serious injury would have resulted.

Mr. McCoy, although suffering a great deal of pain, was able to be about his work on Thursday, but his left hand will be out of commission for some time.

USE OF THE FORWARD PASS

That Play, Intermingled With Others of Open Variety, Indicates Style Yale Will Depend On.

In the east Yale so far has made by far the best showing of the big teams which got into action. The Elis took Holy Cross into camp, 26 to 0, in a game in which the forward pass and spectacular runs by Captain Howe and Sid Anderson were the Features. The constant use of the forward pass, intermingled with other plays of the open variety, plainly shows that Old Eli will depend upon the most open sort of play for its victories.

MANAGER MACK MAY RETIRE

Poor Health and Recent Marriage of Leader of Champion Athletics Assigned as the Reason.

This season will probably be the last one for Connie Mack as manager of the Athletics.

If the Athletics win the American league pennant and the team is in good shape for next season, Mack's retirement is almost certain.

Connie is a stockholder in the Athletic club, and when he retires will become an officer of the club, probably president, in which capacity he would direct the club the same as Charley Comiskey directs the White Sox.

Mack is forty-nine, and at times his health is not good. He has remained at home several times this season when the Athletics made short trips on the road. Another thing, Connie was married last fall and naturally prefers to remain at home instead of traveling over the country with his team.

Schulte Wouldn't Quit.

When Frank Schulte was seventeen years old his father offered him $1,000 to burn his uniform and quit baseball. "Wildfire" recently said this daddy thinks differently of the matter now.

Both Clubs Much Pleased

Rain Gives Giants and Athletics Chance to Recuparate.

Philadelphia, Oct. 19.—Rain prevented the playing of the fourth game between the New York Giants and Philadelphia Athletics for the world's championship. The postponed game will be played this afternoon in Philadelphia, weather permitting. In any event, it will be played in the Quaker City the first clear day.

Giant players and fans are elated over the calling off the day's contest, as the delay will put Rube Marquard in much better shape to face the Athletics and will give Mathewson an extra day of rest, so that he can take his turn in the box again tomorrow, strong enough to go the full route.

Nor has Connie Mack's team manifested undue anxiety over the postponement. Bender and Plank will secure more rest and either of them will be able to do slab duty today, for it is more than likely Manager Mack will select either the Indian or Plank for mound work in the next battle.

Make It Four Straight.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—The White Sox licked the Cubs team 7 to 2 and thereby won the championship of Chicago in four straight games. Walsh was on the slab for the Sox and the Cubs never had a chance. The crowd was a corker, every seat in the grandstand, bleachers and box being filled an hour before the game started. There was a large overflow crowd on the playing field, and ground rules were necessary.

Perhaps if there were more intra-scholastic athletics it might help.

Just the same, next year will find the Chicago fans as hopeful as ever.

Swindle, the pitcher signed by the Naps, should be a good base stealer. Another rooter's pet notion of nothing to read about is an ante-season football game.

Somehow or other Rye doesn't seem a singularly appropriate name for a golf tournament.

The golden days of football are past. Athletes are obliged to attend classes nowadays.

Over in dear old Lunnun they have a way of letting the opponents to boxing take it out in talk.

It is understood some of the high schools have substituted marbles and top spinning for football.

The 1911 Carlisle football squad includes the following: She Bear, Half Town, Ez Nez and Wounded Eye.

The "old boys" who once played prep school football hate to admit it in these days of the board of control. Aviation has proved the only successful competitor to the diamond game and that was a trifle expensive.

One of the best things brought about by changes in the football rules is the interpretation of rules decided upon.

One of the best things about automobile races is that no machine seems to be able to win two in succession.

Parental objection seems to be as great a bugbear under the present reformed football rules as under the old ones.

Suing a ball club for damages after having been ejected on account of disorderly conduct seems the height of flourishing.

Ty Cobb is thinking of training this winter in a billiard room. He heard George Sutton made 500 points in four innings.

The Yale football candidate who fell out of a Pullman coach and escaped uninjured should have attended Michigan prior to 1906.

This year a football official is considered part of the properties of the field. A ball striking an official is not dead, but continues in play.

Bobbie Kerr, who won the 220-yard dash for Great Britain in the last Olympic, got one poor third place in the Canadian championships.

Some of the best baseball recruits this year have come from Texas. The state is bearing out General Sherman's opinion that it is a hotbed.

To the uninformed it seems as if a course in football, track or basketball ought to be just as much physical training as fancy dancing, even in the "credit" line.

Picks American Tennis Team.

The make up of the American lawn tennis team that will visit Australia, this winter in quest of the Davis cup, was announced the other day. The selections are: William A. Larned, the national champion; Maurice E. McLoughlin, the winner of the All-Corner tournament at Newport, and Beals C. Wright, the runner-up to McLoughlin.

Prison Must Wait

Diegel Gets Twenty-Day Stay of Execution.

Columbus, O., Oct. 19.—Judge Bigger, presiding in the criminal court, granted a stay of execution of sentence to Rodney J. Diegel, convicted senate sergeant-at-arms, for 20 days, pending his appeal to the supreme court.

Diegel's conviction and sentence to three years in the penitentiary for acting as a go-between in the alleged bribery of Senator L. R. Andrews was affirmed by the circuit court. His only hope of escaping the penitentiary now rests in the supreme court. He is out under $10,000 bond, pending appeal to the highest tribunal of the state.

Wilson Keeps His Date

Secretary Addresses Brewers in Spite of Protests.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—Secretary of Agriculture Wilson addressed the International Brewers' congress, in session here, despite the protests of thousands of clergymen and religious organizations. Secretary Wilson is honorary president of the congress.

"I accepted the invitation to address the brewers a long time ago," said Secretary Wilson. "It was my duty to come here, and I do not care for the protests of the good people who have objected to my speaking to the beer makers."

What Would be Your Three Wishes?

Hundreds of letters have been received in answer to this question, and it is curious and pathetic to note how reasonable are the requests that most of these writers make of fate, how little they ask, and how similar, how universal, is the cry that goes up from every heart to the high gods.

A few wish they might have the wealth of Rockefeller, the power of a Czar, the beauty of Venus or the genius of Napoleon, but in more than ninety per cent of the replies to the query, "What would you ask for if you had three wishes," the answer has been health, moderate prosperity and love. They are the great eternal needs, and it grips one by the throat to think of the many pain-racked, hungry-hearted, and empty-handed, who ask nothing of life but that which should be the common heritage of all.

But these letters, lifting for an instant the veil that convention forces faces and the world and showing their innermost desires, make a human document that is wonderfully interesting and suggestive. For instance read this from an intelligent young man named John G. Hanna, who says that if he can realize these three wishes he will die content:

"First," he writes, "I desire a good man and woman to hold between their wife; one who will make a man happy and comfortable home, but be not merely a housekeeper; a pal, a chum, a companion, a friend, a counsellor, between whom and myself there will always be perfect understanding."

"Second," congenial work at a task that I like and that will return sufficient financial returns to give me the comforts and harmless luxuries of life, and enable me to make provision for old age. But I do not ask for wealth, as a man must have some occupation to be happy."

"Third," children. I place this last because a man should not bring children into the world until he has the means to care for and educate them well."

One who has seen the world writes—and his wishes come pretty near to securing a pinch on happiness—thus:

"If I could have my three wishes I should ask for a country place with sufficient acreage to enable a worker to get a yearly profit. Secondly, for a good sensible wife who knows herself and who would understand me, and thirdly, several children. The result of having these wishes granted would mean health, happiness and independence."

Right—O—!

"My three wishes would be to marry a good true woman, about forty years old, and with some money so I wouldn't have to worry about making a living. Second, to travel and see the world. Third, to be a good true husband."

Women, of course, aren't quite so moderate in their desires, especially when they are young, and here's what a seventeen-year-old girl says she would ask of her fairy godmother.

"I should ask first to be beautiful; second to marry a rich professional man, and third, to have pretty children."

However, as women grow older they acquire more judgment, and Mrs. S. Postal, who ought to be a good suffragette, if she isn't, writes:

"My first wish would be that we might have a better government. My second wish would be that men might have a better opinion of women. My third wish is that a man grown old with sorrow and labor should not be cast aside but be able to find a position in which to work as well as a young man."

The best isn't any too good for Ct. V. Seymour, who writes:

"As for me, I should wish for the following three things:

"First, MONEY, DREADFULLY MUCH OF IT, so much that I could give everybody just enough to get disgusted with it; second, LOVE, very very much of it, so much of it that people would feel compelled by it to RECOGNIZE THEIR NEIGHBORS AS SUCH; and third, POWER to induce, and if necessary even to compel, people to mind their own business."

For my part I hope he gets his wishes, especially that last one about compelling people to mind their own business.

Victor Burr is a transcendental philosopher and he doesn't bother with common mundane desires. He says:

"I would wish for knowledge—power to see in the heavens at night something more than so many points of fire that gem the sky—light to read correctly the cosmic page and follow the development of worlds from the time of the first Great Unit till all shall be a unit again. Secondly, I should wish for love. To those that love, life eternal is a magnificent reality; to the loveless, how dreadful is the thought of immortality! Then I would wish for faith, not so much in God as in my fellow man. These things I would wish for, and in finding them find all things."

Then come two letters that glimpse two of the real tragedies of life—one from an old woman, who says that she would ask for only $20 a month to ease her pathway to the grave and make her last days comfortable. And the other letter is from a young man, dying with tuberculosis and whose one desire is for life.

Maud Stoutenburgh Elliot, like the late Mr. Webb, drops into poetry and writes:

THREE WISHES.
Fairly dear of by-gone ages,
Come from childhood storied pages,
Touch with your wand my wishes three
And so transform the world for me.

FIRST WISH—
That I may never bitter be
For what life hath denied to me;
Learning to smile and bear my cross,
That others may not know my loss.

SECOND WISH—
That I so blind may never be
To fall a brother's woe to see;
But rather share with him his pain,
Thy hope shall blossom once again.

THIRD WISH—
The third and dearer than the rest
Is for the one whom I love best;
That while he toils from day to day,
The thought of me may light his way.

EMPLOYERS MAKE STRIKES PAY IN GREAT BRITAIN

Greed to Get Rival's Trade Helps Along Cause of Unions.

LONDON (Special).—Do strikes pay?

"In England, yes," answered "Honest Jack Jones" of the Dockers' Union, who managed the big strike of dockworkers in London recently.

"In America," he continued, "the theory and practice of unionism are as well, or perhaps better, understood by the employers as by the employees. There are federations of masters as well as of men, and the opposing forces, equally well organized and each fighting selfishly, equalize conditions in the labor world."

"We have employers' federations in England, too, which operate satisfactorily enough in times of industrial peace. But the English employer is, after all, old fashioned, and though he is quite as selfish as the American employer, he does not take the American's wide view of unionism. So, when his brother employer's factory is tied up by a strike, he cannot resist the temptation to take advantage of the latter's misfortune. He cannot forget that that brother employer is his business rival. Consequently, he cuts in and gets as much as possible of his rival's business and as many as he can of his best men. That isn't good unionism and it helps the employees to win strikes."

With 1911 only a little more than half over, a review of the year thus far a record in the number of its industrial struggles, shows that the strikers have won in almost every instance. In 1909, 2,750,000 days were lost in Great Britain through strikes and lockouts. In 1910, 9,750,000 days were lost. In the first six months of 1911 more than 10,000,000 days were lost in the biggest strike of all in its progress.

The number of strikes and of men involved in them during this period are shown in the following table.

	Disputes	Workers.
January	35	13,631
February	43	25,223
March	41	22,316
April	27	10,027
May	51	14,523
June	36	95,566

These figures do not include the dockers' strike in July and August in which nearly 100,000 men were involved, the railroad strike or a number of recent strikes in northern England.

Of the 200 strikes which have occurred in Great Britain in the past seven months only one has failed completely—a strike of 900 "pit boys," who brought out 3,600 colliery workers in sympathy with them in the North Staffs mines, but who afterwards returned to work at the old scale of wages.

The following list shows how some of the more important labor disputes have been settled this year:

Improved conditions in night shifts and better overtime pay allowed to more than 1,000 scalers and cementers in the Liverpool shipyards.

Higher pay and better conditions granted by a conciliation board to 800 miners at Pontypridd, Wales, following a ninety-one days' strike, attended by much rioting.

Safer props put into the mines at Burnley, following an eighty-eight day strike by 4,000 miners.

Higher wages granted 1,000 riveters in the Liverpool shipyards after one day's demonstration of their indispensability.

Shorter hours granted to 3,000 London compositors.

Six fish porters at Hull who had been discharged for refusing to perform certain work reinstated by a conciliation board following a two days' strike by 1,984 of their fellow-workers.

Increase granted in the starvation wages formerly paid to the Cradley Heath chainmakers.

Gradual reduction in the number of Dundee jute spinners stopped after twenty-seven days' strike by 4,500 spinners.

Five per cent increase in wages granted to 20,000 Bradford woolcombers, spinners and cardroom hands, following eighteen days' strike, which, however, failed to secure better working conditions.

Advance in piece-work schedule granted to 3,000 Rossendale slipper makers, following twenty-five days' strike.

Dismissed coal-miner at Durham reinstated after walkout of 2,600 fellow workers.

Dispute over a single South Shields miner's wages settled in his favor after walkout by 1,300 fellow workers.

Nonunionists compelled to join Walsall miners' union after three days' strike of 1,400 unionists.

Higher wages and shorter hours allowed to 1,300 Leeds tailors.

Higher wages granted to Birkenhead shipbuilders' helpers after six days' strike by 732 shipbuilders.

Higher wages granted to 600 Southampton shipwrights, following a four days' strike.

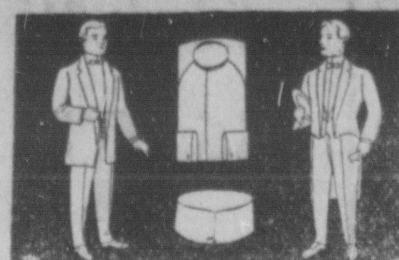

Change in forewomen prevented at Newcastle by strike of 361 furriers. Shorter hours and higher pay allowed to 170 shoddy and mungo workers at Ossett.

Widened His Horizon.
"When I was first married I thought my wife was the only woman on earth."

"How do you feel about it now?"
"Well, there's our cook."

"The face of the return," said the chairman of the meeting, "shows sixty-seven eyes and no noses."

"What a queer looking face that must be!" remarked an old lady in the back row.
